"With NAVHR we have consistent and consolidated information, which gives us a global view of the company"

— Paulo Couto,
Finance Director, Cork Supply Group

Cork Supply Portugal, S.A., is the Portuguese subsidiary of the Cork Supply group, present in the United States and Australia, a leading group in the natural cork sector, with a 12% share of Portuguese cork. As an industry, Cork Supply's needs were essentially focused on obtaining a solution that integrated with the production component.

In the case of Human Resources, they also needed an integrated solution that would allow salaries to be integrated into the accounts and time to be processed as automatically as possible, whether in terms of absenteeism or overtime.

The Arquiconsult team met both needs: Microsoft Dynamics Nav. As an integrated system, it is not only an ERP (Enterprise Resource Planning); it is also an MRP (Material Requirement Planning).

As far as Human Resources is concerned, the team implemented its Human Resources solution, also based on Microsoft Dynamics Nav, which made accounting integration possible and enabled the integration of point system picks, automating the loading of absenteeism and extra work.

Situation

Cork Supply S.A., founded in 1995 in Santa Maria de Lamas, is the Portuguese subsidiary of the Cork Supply group, present in the United States and Australia, a leading group in the natural cork sector and holder of a 12% share of Portuguese cork.

As an industry, Cork Supply's needs essentially centered on obtaining a Supply Chain Management (SCM) solution, given that the reality they found consisted of a set of independent applications whose outputs hardly reflected the total reality of the business.

In the case of Human Resources, an integrated solution was also required, with the robustness and versatility necessary, on the one hand, to comply with the sector's legal requirements and, on the other, to meet the specific reporting needs of the management team.

Solution

The NAVHR solution was the obvious choice - in addition to the implementation of modules already covered by the Microsoft Dynamics Nav ERP, Accounting, Sales and Collections, Stock Management, Fixed Assets, Production and Capacity Needs Planning - due to the possibility of integrating the information of the entire organization on a single platform, making it easier to issue all the maps needed for the activity.

In terms of time management, an interface has been set up with the time clock system to enable the automatic import of all relevant information, particularly with regard to absenteeism and overtime work. On the other hand, the sector's collective bargaining agreement required a specific configuration for calculating monthly pay, overtime and attendance.

"NavHR makes it possible to aggregate all the information in the same database, enabling it to be processed efficiently both for decision making in the management and organization of the company, or as a response to legal requirements."
