Forbes has recently identified Dynamics 365 Business Central as its choice when it comes to ERP's in the Cloud, for medium-sized companies (more information in FORBES EVALUATES D365 BC AS LEADING CLOUD ERP)

If there was any doubt, this is the proof that Microsoft's strong commitment to the product, providing new and attractive features for new as well as existing customers who wish to evolve, has succeed. It's important also to highlight that, for existing customers, Microsoft created the Bridge to the Cloud program, valid until December 2024, which allows the transition to the Cloud under advantageous conditions.

Despite the maintenance of the On Premises version of 365 Business Central continuing to be ensured, the strategy is clearly focused on the Cloud, with Microsoft having announced that, from April 2025, only the Cloud version will be available to new customers. Following the same line, a new update to the On Premises licensing price list (Perpetual and Subscription) was recently announced, as well as a 1% increase for the On Premises licenses (perpetual) annual enhancement plan (the so-called BREP or Enhancement Plan). The new conditions come into force on October 1st .
